NO NEW AIRSHIPS FOR BRITAIN.

Cardington As Nucleus of Investigation.

R.100 TO BE RETAINED.

Rugby, Yesterday.
The Prime Minister made an important statement regarding British Airship policy in the House of Commons this evening. He said that it was perfectly obvious after the deplorable accident of the R.101 that the whole policy and programme should be reviewed, and the Government had turned with a good deal of expectation to the report compiled after the extraordinary patience and most powerful examination of the case by the Committee over which Sir John Simon presided.

The position in which the Government found themselves at the moment was this—the airship up-to-date had neither proved a failure nor achieved an assured success. The position to-day was that Britain had one airship, the R.100, which was very much out of condition by lack of use. Assuming that the R.100 was retained, there would be no idea of long and spectacular flights. It would be a sort of experimental ship.

There was a whole field of unsolved problems that ought to be investigated. The R.100, reconditioned, would be most useful for testing and investigating and would provide for the keeping of a nucleus staff. This would cost £120,000 in the second year and the peak figure would be £140,000. The view of the Government was that this scheme should be adopted. The scheme must be revised and reviewed thoroughly at the end of three, or, at outside, four years.—British Wireless Service.

Another Report.

London, Yesterday.
Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in the House of Commons to-day announced that no new airships would be built. Cardington would be kept as the nucleus of scientific investigation, and the R.100 would be retained as an experimental airship.—Reuter.

DRAMATIST DEAD.

AUTHOR OF OVER THIRTY STAGE SUCCESSSES.

MR. DAVID BELASCO.

New York, Yesterday.
The death is announced to-day of Mr. David Belasco, the American theatrical producer and dramatist, in his seventy-second year.—Reuter's American Service.

[Mr. Belasco was born in San Francisco in 1859, both of his parents being British. His first production was "Lord Chumley," in 1887, followed by "Madame Butterfly," "The Music Master," "The Darling of the Gods," and many other well-known plays. He himself wrote over thirty plays of all kinds, his latest being "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," which was adapted for the film.]

MORE STOWAWAYS.

Two natives of Estonia, Ernest Tollman and Voldemar Kukki, pleaded "guilty" at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning to stowing away on the s.s. Lahn from Singapore.

Both men expressed a wish to go to Shanghai where they could see the Estonian Consul.

Sub-Inspector Elson asked for a week's remand in custody, which was granted.

MARINERS WARNED.

The following notice to mariners was posted at the Harbour Office yesterday afternoon:—

Mariners and others are warned, that the end of the breakwater recently constructed at Cheung-sha-wan will not be marked by day or lighted by night.

GUNNER CHARGED WITH LARCENY.

Yielded to Sudden Temptation.

GOOD RECORD.

Gunner Gardner, of the R.A., was charged in the Kowloon Police Court this morning with the larceny of a silver watch and a key from a boat in the harbour, the property of Yeung Ng, mistress of the boat.

Defendant pleaded "guilty" and said that he felt a sudden temptation come over him.

It was stated that defendant was out in a rowing boat, with other men, and as the boat passed the complainant's sampan, defendant reached across and snatched a cigarette tin which contained the watch and key. He was seen afterward on board a German ship, the s.s. Dory, with five companions. When arrested by Sergeant Cameron, he produced the stolen articles.

No Right to Take It.

Sub-Inspector Elston said that it had been suggested that the man thought it was a tin of cigarettes.

Mr. Hamilton:—Even so, he had no right to take it, and also on finding the watch he should not have kept it.

An officer of the R.A. said that Gardner's record in the East had been generally good.

In view of that, Mr. Hamilton said he would deal leniently with the matter, and imposed a fine of $25, or, in default a month's imprisonment. Defendant was allowed 24 hours to pay the fine.

JOY RIDING.

CAR TAKEN OUT WITHOUT PERMISSION.

TRIP TO REPULSE BAY.

A young Chinese appeared before Mr. W. Schofield in the Central Police Court this morning, summoned for driving a private car in Bonham Road on April 29 without the permission of the owner or licensee. He pleaded guilty.

Traffic Sub-Inspector Nicoll said that, on receipt of a telephone message, he went to the Government Civil Hospital garage, where he was informed by Mr. F. Anslow that his car had been taken out. The Inspector searched till 2 a.m. but found no trace of the vehicle. The next morning Mr. Anslow called at the Traffic Office, and explained that the car had been returned.

Permission Given?

Defendant said that on several previous occasions he had been granted Mr. Anslow's permission to drive the car, but on that night he telephoned Mr. Anslow but he was out, and so he (defendant) thought that Mr. Anslow would not mind if he took the car out.

Inspector Nicoll (to the Magistrate): He has been instructing Mr. Anslow to drive.

The Magistrate (to defendant): What did you use the car for?

Defendant: I just went to Repulse Bay for a drive.

His Worship: Was the car in good condition when returned?

Inspector Nicoll: There was nothing wrong with it.

Replying to his Worship, Mr. Anslow said that it was a habit of his (Mr. Anslow's) to note the mileage of the car, and that night defendant must have driven for about 29 miles.

Prevalence of Cases.
Inspector Nicoll remarked to the Bench that during the past twelve months, there had been about 30 cases where cars had been taken without the permission of the owners. There had been five cases in Kowloon, where the owners were reluctant to prosecute. "This is the first case we have had in which the owner comes to Court," he concluded.

A fine of $20 was imposed.

Fined for Speeding.
Prosecuting the Chinese driver of a public vehicle for speeding, Inspector Nicoll said that he drove from the Chinese bathing sheds at Shaikwan to the east gate of the Tai-koo Docks at a speed of about 30 miles an hour. Defendant's vehicle passed another motor car and a tramcar.

His Worship imposed a fine of $20.

For carrying seven passengers in excess, the Chinese conductor of an Aberdeen bus was fined $5.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN QUEEN'S ROAD.

Coolie Knocked Down
by Hotel Bus.

VIEW OBSCURED.

A fatal accident occurred in Queen's Road Central at 4.55 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

A Hong Kong Hotel bus was proceeding in an easterly direction when, at the junction of Peel Street, a Chinese coolie, who was carrying boxes on his right shoulder, thus obscuring any view of the oncoming vehicle, ran across the road and was knocked down by the left front mudguard of the bus. He died soon afterward.

Another Mishap.

Another motor mishap occurred in Waterloo Road at 8.20 o'clock this morning, when a motor lorry, which was travelling westward, turned north into Peace Avenue, a little past Ho Mun Tin Street. A nullah made the turn very sharp, causing a coolie who was sitting with two others on the back of the lorry to fall heavily to the ground. He was picked up in an unconscious condition, and was driven to the Kowloon Hospital in the lorry. He is reported to be in a serious condition.

UNEMPLOYMENT.

"EATING INTO THE NATION'S LIFE AND COURAGE."

"Unemployment is the only feature in the life of Britain of which I am afraid," said Sir John Ferguson, M.P., former president of the Institute of Bankers and a member of the Government Unemployment Grants Committee, when addressing members of the Junior Constitutional Club, Piccadilly, on "A business man's view of the industrial crisis."

The business year of 1930, he said, had been more difficult than any year since 1921, when the country suffered from the aftermath of inflation, which left us suffering from very severe depression.

To-day unemployment was eating into the life and courage of the nation. Work which was put before the unemployed must be work of economic value. In the North of England it was impossible to find any way out.

The Only Remedy.
To give a man money for nothing was to do him the greatest possible harm. The present expenditure for the relief of the unemployed was devastatingly destructive to the soul of the nation.

Social services, given with a free hand, would wreck the next Budget. The only way the country could be saved was by increasing export trade and ending dumping. Dumping made the nation look simply silly in the eye of the foreigner.

To survive the country must have a tariff system at home and power to negotiate commercial treaties.

Methods and machinery must at once be overhauled.

STOP PRESS

London, To-day.
A Conservative amendment has been tabled for the rejection of the Finance Bill when it comes up for a second reading in the House of Commons on May 19, principally based on opposition to land tax proposals.

London, To-day.
Feeling is running high in Nelson, Lancashire, in connection with the weaving employers' resolve to increase the looms per man to eight. The Weavers' Association last night organised a demonstration of 20,000 workers, in which the Mayor of Nelson and several Councillors participated.—Reuter.

Batavia, To-day.
The British Tobacco Company has decided drastically to economise in its Java factories. The Sourabaya factory will be closed, resulting in the dismissal of 2,000 natives, and the construction of the Semarang factory will be stopped.

The Batavia distribution branch will remain unchanged.—Reuter.

FAILED TO REPORT.

CHINESE KNOCKED DOWN BY MOTOR CYCLE.

FINE IMPOSED.

Mr. W. J. Simpson, of No. 1, Edward Building, Prince Edward Road, was charged in the Kowloon Police Court this morning with failing to report to the Police within a reasonable time after colliding with and injuring Yip Ngai-lin in Nathan Road at 4.25 p.m. on April 28, and also with failing to have two independent and efficient brakes on his motor cycle on April 30.

A fine of $10 was imposed on the first count, but owing to an error in the form of the second summons, it was dismissed.

LIFE SAVING.

CLASSES AT THE CENTRAL POLICE STATION.

Classes for instruction in life saving are being conducted at the Central Police Station Gymnasium and at the Police Training School, Mongkok, every Tuesday and Friday at 5 p.m.

Books on the subject of life saving are now available and can be had, by those interested, on application to Sergeant R. J. Hunt, Central Police Station.

EUROPEAN FINED.

DRIVING A CAR WITHOUT A LICENCE.

Mr. W. R. Davies, of No. 5, Prince Edward Road, attached to the Flying Club, pleaded "guilty" at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning to driving a private car in Sai Kung Road at 11.15 a.m. on April 15, without an appropriate driver's licence.

A fine of $25 was imposed.

COXSWAINS FINED.

PASSENGERS IN EXCESS OF NUMBER ALLOWED.

Two coxswains of steam launches carrying pilgrims to Chekwan for the Tin Hau (Goddess of Mercy) festival, were to-day charged before Comdr. J. B. Newill, in the Marine Court, with carrying passengers in excess of the numbers allowed by their licences. Both admitted the charges.

One launch had 213 passengers on board, an excess of 123, whilst the other carried 166 passengers, an excess of 85.

The Magistrate imposed fines of $100 each.

REVOLUTION IN AVIATION.

Successful Test Of Crude Oil Motor.

Berlin, April 22.
An epoch-making discovery, which experts describe as a veritable revolution in aviation, was tried out by Junkers to-day, Wednesday, on the Tempelhof air-drome, Berlin. It consists of a crude-oil motor named "Juno Four." The tests were brilliantly successful. With an equal weight of fuel an airplane fitted out with the new motor sees its radius of action increased by 47 per cent. The fuel costs are decreased by 65 per cent. The danger of fire in case the plane crashes is practically eliminated, which leads to a substantial reduction in the insurance rate being made possible. The veteran of aviation, Professor Junkers, personally presented this latest wonder of German technical achievement to an assembly comprising representatives of the authorities, of the aviation companies, scientists, engineers, and the Press.

Hamburg, April 23.
The first flight made with a plane fitted out with a "Juno Four" motor—the crude oil motor tested on Wednesday—was made on Thursday between Berlin and Hamburg, and proved completely successful. The flight was accomplished in less than two hours, only necessitating the use of 80 litres of fuel as against the 150 normally used.

ALLEGED MURDER OF SEPTUAGENARIAN.

Blood-Stained Chopper Found in Sampan.

ROBBERY NOT MOTIVE.

In connection with the murder of Wong Chik-yau, aged 75 years, in Cheung Chau harbour yesterday, it is stated that the victim had an evening meal with his son in a hut on Wednesday. The next morning, he rowed out into the harbour at about 8 o'clock. Half an hour later, an empty sampan was found on the beach near Tai Shok Hau, with a quantity of blood on the boards and a blood-stained chopper.

About a mile distant from this place, the body of the murdered man, with a large wound on the right side of the neck, was found on a beach near Sai Wan. Nothing appeared to have been stolen.

TRESPASSERS.

LARCENY OF CLOTHING FROM STONECUTTERS.

Three Chinese, Pau Tat-sing, Wong Wing-hung and Tse Shu, were charged at the Kowloon Police Court to-day with trespassing on Stonecutters Island. The first two defendants were also charged with the larceny of a suit of clothing and a pair of trousers from a canteen boy in the R. A. Mess.

The first two defendants pleaded guilty and were sent to jail for one month with hard labour on the larceny charge and cautioned for trespassing.

Tse Shu pleaded that he had been taken there by second defendant, who had promised to find him a job in the Mess.

In convicting Mr. Hamilton said he was imposing a fine of $2 to remind him that he could not go to Stonecutters Island even if he had been promised a job.

FOOLISH FLYING.

Lady Heath's Licence Withheld.

Because she swooped down in her plane to within 20 feet of photographers to help them in taking film pictures of her, United States officials have temporarily withheld the flying licence earned by Lady Heath, the British airwoman, who has recently started flying again after recovering from the accident in which she was injured early last year.

She had successfully passed the written and flight tests, and had re-entered the machine for another flight while waiting for her licence to be issued.

Inspector O. P. Harwood told her that such flying was dangerous and foolish.

Lady Heath will be granted a licence and will then be "grounded" for 15 days.

THE MEN WHO DIED AFTER KUT FELL.

All Buried in Bagdad War Cemetery.

A MOVING STORY.

London, April 14.
Sir Fabian Ware, Permanent Vice-Chairman of the Imperial War Graves Commission, who has just returned from a special inspection of the British War Graves in India and Mesopotamia, talked with an Evening News correspondent to-day about what he had seen on his tour. He said: "I went particularly to see the section in the British Cemetery in Bagdad in which we have tenderly buried our men who died at the hands of the Turks after the surrender of Kut."

"This story of the work of the Imperial War Graves Commission has never yet been told. It is one of the most moving in all the history of the War."

"Quite simply, what we have done is to search for, and bring in, all those British and Indian soldiers whose sufferings were, in part, described by Arnold Wilson in his book 'Loyalties,' and who since the Armistice had been lying unrecognised and unhonoured throughout Asia Minor."

"Major Wilson's book, frank as it was, was unable fully to describe the sufferings of these men. They suffered intolerably, incredibly. They were tortured and neglected inhumanly. It is a ghastly story of neglect."

"It took us six months to find the bodies. There were five hundred of them."

"We had no desire to re-open old wounds. We only wanted, without giving offence to the Turks, to gather our men together and place them in one common resting-place."

"Tenderly we brought them through Syria to Bagdad. As we passed through each village, the French inhabitants turned out and solemnly greeted the cortege."

"In the British cemetery at Bagdad we laid them in a section of their own; few people knew of their burial. Their lot until then had been unrecognised. Now they lie together."

Britain and India.

"We are trying to decide on some inscription to be placed at the entrance to the cemetery. Again we want, without giving offence to anyone, to choose an inscription that is particularly apposite."

"All the headstones will be the same. There will be no difference between British and Indian soldiers."

"As I stood looking at the rows of white gravestones I noticed that one father had already marked an inscription on the grave of his boy:—

"These are they that came out of great tribulation . . ."

"And you will choose that?" Sir Fabian was asked.

"I cannot say yet," he answered. "It is worth taking some time to decide."

"This is the first time I have inspected the war graves in Mesopotamia," Sir Fabian continued. "Do you know that, after France, our greatest casualties were there—60,000 dead?"

"I have never felt as proud of the work that my commissioners are doing as in Mesopotamia among alien peoples."

"Nothing has a greater political significance than the respect, care, and love with which the British are tending their dead. I have seen Arabs and Turks and Indians peering through the gates of the cemeteries and marvelling!"

"We have made for our dead little oases in the desert."

"I am enormously impressed, too, by the work of our soldiers and civilians on the Indian frontier. It is beyond all praise. It is what one would call 'pure Kipling,' but it seems to me that every student of practical politics in India should begin his studies on the frontier."

FALSE ACCOUNTS?

ALLEGATION AGAINST FORMER AUDITOR.

London, Yesterday.
Two summonses have been served on the former auditor of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, Harold John Morland, who is charged with aiding and abetting Lord Kylsant in issuing a false statement of accounts in the years 1926-7.

Morland has declined to discuss the matter.—Reuter.

A British officer, whose life was saved by a German officer, hopes to meet his war-time adversary at an early date. Both are looking forward to it.

The British officer—Major C. B. Arnold, of Llandudno—received a letter from Captain Ernst Ritter von Moravic—the Major, regarding the German as "a good sport," invited him to visit him.

The reply, which has just been received, was as follows:—

"My Dear Comrade Arnold,—With the greatest pleasure and many thanks, I received the account of your recollections translated by my mother-in-law. Unfortunately, I have forgotten all the English I learnt in my early days. All the same, I trust this will be overlooked by my war friend and former opponent."

Facing Death.

"Ere long I will send you newspaper cuttings which no doubt will be most interesting. They are some which I kept, and one is where your damaged tank is being hauled behind our lines and where our prisoners of war stood. At the time of your capture I thought your end had arrived, never thinking that you would pass through alive. However, through it all, I commanded my Lieutenant to transport you to the rear in double quick time, which saved the situation and incidentally your life."

"The soldier you wounded with your butt-end [the German word, used is kolben] was allowed to fall behind the lines, and was shown pity by your countrymen."

"As soon as business improves, I shall take the first opportunity, alone with my wife, to visit Britain—and, of course, will pay you a visit. This I hope will be next year. On demobilisation I entered politics in the Bavarian State, and must arrange this year for next Summer's holiday. Perhaps, you will be in a position to pay a visit to Germany, in which case I shall be very pleased to see you and entertain you as my only war comrade."

"In the hope to hear from you again at your earliest opportunity;—

"I am your faithful friend,—"Ernst Ritter von Moravic."

Major Arnold states that he has no recollection of hitting anyone with the butt-end of his revolver, as he was too "done-up" when captured. His recollections are somewhat confused.

Ready to be Shot.

His capture occurred after he had been advancing for twelve hours in the whippet tank which he commanded. Nine reserve cans of petrol outside had been perforated by machine-gun fire, and these caught on fire, sending a cascade of flaming liquid over the rear door. The fumes nearly overpowered the Major and his two companions, and when two explosions brought the tank to a standstill, they, with their clothing on fire, dashed from the door. The grass at their feet was ablaze, and they rolled on the ground to put out the flames. A wing of German infantry was advancing on them, firing from the hip. One of Major Arnold's companions fell dead. As the Germans rushed forward, Major Arnold rose to his knees and received a bayonet thrust in the hand. He then fell unconscious from a clubbed rifle blow. He can recall being laid later against a bank presumably to be shot, when a bearded German came on the scene with outstretched arms and took Major Arnold and his companion in charge, conducting them to divisional headquarters.

HOW A "GO SLOW" STRIKE WORKS.Crates Handled Like Jewels.

STATION OF PEACE.

He scratched his head. He had a jolly, ruby countenance, with a shock of fair and twinkling eyes. He scratched his head and grinned, and smiled at me with a smile of comic helplessness.

"Well, sir, I'm blown if I know, come to that! It's like this 'ere." He frowned, took a deep breath, and tried to explain.

"You 'as to go slow, see? Right. Well, 'spose you're shifting a crate—see? First you eyes the crate and say to your mate, 'Bill, 'ere's a crate, and he says, 'Well, I never,' or at least my mate does."

"You approach the lorry sort of aimless, see, and you lift that crate like it was a new-born baby. You takes time."

"You rest it gentle on the ground, and then you go and find a barrier that'd hold it better than the barrier you got—see?"

"You 'as trouble finding the barrier, and when you make up your mind to use the barrier you 'ad first, you've done in about ten minutes too much—see?"

"That's 'going slow'?" I inquired.

"No—working to rule, we call it," grinned my instructor.

Strike Technique.

More than 1,000 railwaymen have declared a "go-slow" strike as a protest against the N.U.R.'s acceptance of the National Wages Board's awards.

I made a tour of the affected depots to study the technique of this unusual strike.

I went to Broad Street Station. Daily it is the roaring, shrieking home of a thousand clatters and a million smells.

But now it was a temple of sweet peace, a railway station of Lotus Land!

A lorry full of fish arrived at the goods station.

Now, there is nothing artistic about a lorry full of fish but those railwaymen treated it like a rare orchid fallen into the gutter from the open window of some speeding limousine!

A picket approached the lorry. He was a young man, with a cigarette in his mouth and an air of old-fashioned courtesy which was quite pleasing.

"What you got?" said the picket.

"Fish," snapped the lorry driver.

"Any 'chips'?" asked the picket politely.

Then they held a short causerie on the ethics of striking, and the prospects of Birmingham in the Cup Final. A jolly policeman joined them and they had a charming little chat.

"Ah, well," said the lorry driver, "must get on."

He tapped on a shut gate. After about five minutes a head popped out, and said, "what you got?"

"Fish," said the lorry driver.

"Fish?" inquired the head.

"Yus," said the lorry driver.

"Not 'Art."

After another interval two men approached the lorry. Carefully they slid out a crate . . . delicately they placed it on the ground.

"Steady with your end, Joe, we don't want to dint it, do we?"

"Not 'art we don't."

A jeweller embedding a fair pearl in velvet could not have treated that load of fish with more delicacy. It was beautiful to watch.

And in the old days railwaymen only needed a sight of "This End Up," "Glass With Care," or "Use No Hooks," to leap with cries of hindish glee upon a package and dash it on the concrete.

But now they read the inscriptions with care several times, and the "Dead March" is a Highland fling compared with the speed they use in transporting the contents—D.D. in Daily Express.

BRAZIL'S "FAIRY"
CAPITAL.City of Luxury, Beauty, and Pleasure.

RIO DE JANEIRO.

Rio de Janeiro, where the Prince of Wales and Prince George stayed on their South American tour, is often described as a "fairy" city. Its rapid growth—thirty years ago it was described as a "town that is a mere chessboard of shabby narrow streets"—seems to suggest the touch of a magic wand, writes a Daily Express correspondent.

I have seen in Rio the most beautiful women in the world, with their great dark eyes, little straight noses, flashing teeth, and the exquisite oval of their faces.

The well-to-do Brazilian woman's life is devoted to the pursuit of pleasure and personal adornment. The glittering shops on the Avenida Rio Branco seem to be designed solely for her delight.

Brazilians are extremely pleasure-loving. The gaming tables, dancing, and horse racing form an important part of the national life.

The hotels are enormous and most luxurious. The "palace" where I stayed at Copacabana had its own theatre and casino, and a large galleried ball-room. In the Chinese restaurant, with its illuminated glass dancing floor, the tables were a mass of orchids, and expensive souvenirs were given away nightly to the guests.

It is curiously indicative of the Brazilian's love of magnificent and spectacular buildings that although the municipal theatre is an imposing affair, with its restaurant, pillars of Italian marble, bronze doors, stained-glass windows, domed roof and vast stage, the auditorium is comparatively small and the seating capacity extremely limited.

It is not the theatre of which the native of Rio is proudest, or its palatial hotels, or the imposing Avenida Rio Branco. It is not even the famous bay or the mountains that encircle the city.

It is the five-mile promenade of white marble that he loves, with its chain of electric lights. It is said that they can be seen forty miles away at sea on a clear night.

They call this "the necklace of jewels."

Many of the cabarets, dancing and gaming halls do not open until midnight, for it is then that the real night life of Rio begins.

When you enter this "fairy" city you obtain an immediate impression of wealth in the extravagant homes of the millionaires, the jewellery displayed by the woman, and their elegant clothes. Even the taxi-cabs plying for hire look like sumptuous private motor-cars.

Rio suggests glamour and romance. But if you want to have a good time in this "fairy" city . . . it cannot be done on "fairy" gold!

CAVENDISH CLUB IN DANGER.

Meeting To Consider Its Future.

Yet another West End club is facing crisis.

There is a serious danger that the Cavendish Club in Piccadilly will have to close its doors. Its fate depends on a meeting of members called for early next month to see whether arrangements can be made for its continuance.

The Cavendish has been a gathering place for young men from the public schools and universities interested in social and philanthropic work.

It was founded in 1912, and the first president was the Duke of Devonshire.

Not very long ago it claimed 1,500 members.

An official of the club said: "Times are bad for clubs, but I do not know yet whether the Cavendish will close or not. The whole matter will be decided at a meeting of members which has been called to consider the position."

HOW much warm human companionship must stand to the credit of Peter Dawson Whisky! For the breaking of social ice, for the rescuing of sundered acquaintanceships, for the fostering of long-established friendships—here is a whisky whose excellence is above all others. Once men learn its virtues they say "P.D." more readily than they say "Whisky"

Overland China Mail.

A WHOLE WEEK'S NEWSPAPERS IN ONE.

The end of a long-drawn-out legal dispute was arrived at during the week, when the Equitable Eastern Banking Corporation withdrew from the case in which a local Chinese sought redemption of certain securities deposited against an overdraft. The OVERLAND CHINA MAIL gives a complete record of the hearings, during which it was stated that amounts totalling $360,000 had been credited to plaintiff in error. The bank sought to justify the reversal of these entries. Their case fell through when it was discovered at the last moment before the first hearing that their most essential witness had disappeared.

In the Legislative Council, the new figure (17 per cent.) payable as rates on assessment of tenements was made uniform throughout the Colony. Certain allowances were made in cases where a complete Government water supply was not available. It was explained that the Government considered this a more equitable manner of taxation than had prevailed hitherto. A full account appears in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

Considerable discussion followed the introduction of a vote before the Finance Committee of a sum of over $8,000 for resumption of land belonging to the Royal Hong Kong Golf Club at Fanling. A proposal to take over the land, then lease it back to the Golf Club at interest of 4½ per cent. per annum was strongly opposed by the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, who considered that the rights of the public were being interfered with. The motion was passed with one dissentient. The OVERLAND CHINA MAIL reports the discussion in full.

At an Investiture Ceremony during the week, H.E. the Governor, decorated Mr. E. W. Carpenter with the Order of the British Empire, Miss N. E. James (superintendent nurse at the Royal Naval Hospital), with the order of the Royal Red Cross, Second Class, as well as presenting four Chinese with Certificates of Honour. The Certificates were the first to be presented in the Colony. The Investiture is described in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

An instructive address by the Rev. Father G. Byrne, S.J., on "Our Emotional Life," given before the Rotary Club, is also reported in detail in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

Groundings of steamers, happily not of a serious nature, are also reported in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL. The ships concerned were the s.s. President Cleveland and Taiping, and it is thought the mishaps were due to fog.

There is no phase of the life of the Colony or of China that does not receive attention in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL—the weekly paper that YOU MUST ORDER NOW.

Letters to relatives and friends in other parts of the world frequently fail to be written even by the most ardent correspondents. It is a kindly thought, therefore, to ensure that those away from the Colony, or folks at Home, should have an unfailing supply of Hong Kong and Chinese news every week—by means of a subscription to the "Overland China Mail."

Without any trouble of packing and worrying about the Post Office, on your part, and at the cost only of $4.75 for three months, the "Overland China Mail" will be sent Home for you every week, catching the mail regularly. It contains the news and special features from the daily "China Mail" that make a studied appeal to people with any interest whatsoever in Hong Kong, and many letters from Home, Australia, and Canada testify to the keen pleasure and interest its weekly arrival brings.

For your folks at Home to receive this weekly budget, or to keep yourself posted with affairs during your absence, all that you have to do is to drop a note to the "Overland China Mail."

The word "Overland" is a reminder of the experience behind the production, it having been published since the early days of the Colony, to be sent OVERLAND because there was no Suez Canal, and that was the quickest route by which to get mail Home. In the march of time the "Overland China Mail" has become the most popular weekly news budget, as it has been compiled just to suit present-day requirements, as it has done all along. What more could be desired?

THE P.C. HOOFT.

MACHINERY POWER INCREASE.

When completed in 1926 the P. C. Hooft was by far the largest Dutch motor liner, being a passenger vessel (for the Netherlands Steamship Co.'s Eastern service) of 14,000 tons gross, 520 ft. b.p., with a beam of 67 ft. 9 ins. and a loaded draught of 26 ft. 3 ins. She was equipped with two 4,000 h.p. Sulzer engines, having cylinders 680 mm. in diameter with a piston stroke of 1,200 mm. and the speed was 95 r.p.m. Her service speed was in the neighbourhood of 15 knots to 15½ knots.

Since that time the Johan van Oldenbarnevelt and Marix van St. Aldegonde have been built for the same owners, and these have a speed of 17½ knots to 18 knots in service. It was desired by the owners to bring the P. C. Hooft into line in the matter of speed, and in order to increase the power, an order was placed in November, 1929, for two Sulzer engines of 7,000 h.p. with nine cylinders, running at 130 r.p.m. The cylinders have a diameter of 750 mm. The vessel has been lengthened 8 ft., and it is hoped that on trials a speed of 17½ knots will be attained. No special trials will be run before the vessel leaves on her maiden voyage after conversion on April 7, in Amsterdam, but probably some tests will be carried out over a day or two in the Red Sea.

The remarkable fact about this conversion is that space has been found in the existing engine-room to accommodate the new machinery of 75 per cent. greater power. The higher speed has necessitated great care to ensure the absence of vibration, and the engine settings have been strengthened. The engine-room arrangement is, perhaps, not perfect, but it is a great feat to be able to increase a ship's speed in this way with so little alteration.—Motor Ship.

OVERLOADED STEAMER.

Jugo-Slavian Captain Fined At Cardiff.

The Cardiff Stipendiary Magistrate imposed a fine of £50 and £7 7s. costs on Captain Luca Matovic for permitting the overloading of the Jugo-Slavian steamer Jadera at Barry last December.

Mr. L. M. Allen, prosecuting on behalf of the Board of Trade, said the vessel was boarded whilst sailing by a Board of Trade surveyor, who found that the load line was submerged on an average to the extent of 4½ in., which represented about 90 to 100 tons of cargo more than the vessel should have carried.

Mr. J. Owen Davis, for the defence, said his client pleaded guilty. He found his vessel overloaded, and was faced with difficulty. "One way out," said Mr. Davis, "to put it frankly, was for the captain to try and get away with it."

BRITISH NAVY.

Admiral of the Fleet the Rt. Hon. Lord Wester Wemyss, G.C.B., C.M.G., M.V.O. presided at the annual dinner of the Institution of Naval Architects held in London recently.

The chairman, in proposing "The Royal Navy," thought the Navy had been cut down beyond the limit of safety. Peace did not depend altogether on the goodwill of statesmen.

Admiral Sir Cyril T. M. Fuller (Second Sea Lord and Chief of Naval Personnel) in reply, said that the increased intricacies of our ships made a higher claim on personnel than ever before. But that claim was being well met. The naval week at Buenos Aires had shown just what they could do. (Applause.)

GERMAN SHIPPING.

DECREASED PROFITS FOR PAST YEAR.

The annual reports for 1930 of the Norddeutscher Lloyd and the Hamburg American Line show a considerable decrease of profits as compared with 1929. These reports are the first since the "pooling" agreement of the two companies.

Figures for the Norddeutscher Lloyd are:—Net profit 9,792,000 marks ($489,600), as compared with 14,193,000 marks ($709,650) in 1929. The company is paying a dividend of 6 per cent. as against 8 per cent. in 1929.

The Hamburg America Line pays a dividend of 6 per cent. as against 7 per cent., and net profits amount to 9,816,000 marks ($490,800), as compared with 11,562,000 marks ($578,100).

The Norddeutscher Lloyd points out that the shipping crisis is best characterized by the fact that of the world's tonnage of 65,300,000 about 7,600,000 tons were idle at the beginning of 1931, and in the case of Germany 646,000 tons were laid up out of a total of 4,200,000 tons. The Norddeutscher Lloyd estimate their decline in revenue from freightage as at least $250,000. The passenger traffic of the Norddeutscher Lloyd, on the other hand, improved satisfactorily, especially since the liners Europa and Bremen were put into service.

AMBITIOUS NAVAL RATINGS.

Higher Educational Test.

The ambitious ratings of the Atlantic Fleet, now anchored at Gibraltar, are undergoing a higher educational test, writes a Special Correspondent with the Fleet. Every man who wishes to reach warrant rank must pass this examination. The subjects comprise general knowledge, English, history, geography, navigation, mathematics, mechanics, magnetism and electricity, and at least four must be taken. A typical question in the general knowledge paper asks candidates to describe the purposes and results of the Imperial Conference and the Round Table Conference last November. Sixteen marks are awarded for a satisfactory description of either a moving stairway, a wireless receiving set or an automatic ticket machine. Another question asks candidates what facts they can bring forward in support of four of the following statements:—"Britain once formed part of the Continent of Europe. You should face forward when alighting from a bus. Britain was in a fair state of civilisation 3,000 years ago. Tinned food should not be kept in a tin after being opened. Ability is frequently hereditary. It is inadvisable to drink large quantities of liquid at meal times." Candidates are expected to know what important services earthworms perform, and another question asks for notes on six of the following: Lord Irwin, J. B. Priestley, Sir James Jeans, Strube, Mr. Scullin, General Hertzog, Walt Disney, Chaplin, and Imagination. The Correspondent adds, is needed to answer a question which requests a description of life aboard one of His Majesty's ships about the middle of the Eighteenth Century. At any rate, it is doubtful if the sailors of George II could have scored any marks in the modern higher educational test.

Buy British Goods?

Although the actual figures are not at the moment available, it would not be an exaggerated estimate which gave the amount expended by the British Marketing Board on propaganda in the past year as at least half a million sterling. The slogan "Buy British Goods," has been featured in nearly every newspaper in the Empire and a large literary staff is employed in Westminster in composing pamphlets and articles describing British manufactured products and urging Far East and Empire firms to stock British goods. Yet when we turn to the Statesman's Year Book, we find that the value of total imports of foreign manufactures and into Hong Kong rose from £97,528 in 1928 to £114,016 in the following year, and enquiries made up to date from statistical experts show that the volume of foreign imports is increasing by leaps and bounds, to the detriment of British manufacturers. The reason for this is clear. It is not that British goods are not far superior to German, French, and Japanese goods, or that British retailers and consumers overseas do not prefer to buy British goods whenever they can. It is because, owing to the unfavourable exchange, people can no longer afford to pay the high prices which British manufacturers insist on demanding for their goods. It is an old argument, perhaps, but one vital to the future of British trade. If Japanese or German manufacturers are able to produce an article similar in external respects to a British manufactured article, for half the price of the British article, the consumer, harassed as he is by the low value of the dollar, is not going to hesitate when he makes a purchase. He is going to buy the cheaper article. He would like to buy British goods, of course, but if British manufacturers refuse to lower their prices, it is their own fault, and not his. British and foreign goods entering the Colony enjoy equal privileges, since this is a free port, and the only advantage which foreign articles enjoy over British is that of price. If only they would lower their prices, British goods would enjoy a monopoly.

Examples of this regrettable state of affairs are to be found every day. One tobacco retailer informed us a short while ago that during this year he had cleared the whole of his foreign stock—stock which in previous years had lain idle in the store-room and was practically unsellable. A slump had set in in the sale of British goods and over sixty per cent. of his fresh stock was foreign. With the dollar worth a little over eleven pence, customers refused to pay $15 for a British-made pipe, for example, when they could procure a similar foreign pipe for $7 or $10. The same complaint against British prices may be heard on all sides. Contractors who let out tenders for building materials, much as they would prefer to choose British, are forced to accept the lower offers made by American and Continental manufacturers.

The contractor and the retailer cannot be held to blame; the fault lies entirely with the manufacturer, who either lacks the competitive sense or who cannot find a way to cut the high costs of production. A way has been found in Germany, France, and Japan, and, as a result, goods are placed on the foreign market at prices which cannot fail to be acceptable. Britain, it seems, has still to find the way, and, until she does, no amount of propaganda will induce consumers to purchase her goods at prices which she simply cannot afford. Imports from Great Britain to Hong Kong for the 12 months ended March 31, 1931, amounted to £71,000,000 according to the local statistical returns. It is difficult to reduce this to sterling owing to the fluctuation of the dollar during the period under review. An average of about 1s. 8d. would be about right, in which case the imports from Great Britain for the above-mentioned period would be approximately £4,400,000. In arriving at the volume of goods represented by this figure allowance must be made for the fact that world wholesale prices have dropped about 30 per cent. (i.e. £1,000 worth of goods now represents a much greater volume than it would a year or so ago).

Total imports into Hong Kong for the above-mentioned period amounted to £864,399,000 (approximately £39,313,000).

The drop in silver prices has undoubtedly affected adversely imports from the United Kingdom (particularly textile manufactures) by accentuating still further the disparity between the price of British as compared with other manufactures, the demand being more and more for cheaper quality goods of Continental and Japanese manufacture.

News in Brief.

The departure of the s.s. President Madison is now announced for 8 a.m. on Sunday.

The lowest open air temperature yesterday was 68 degrees. The humidity ranged between 93 at 10 a.m. and 92 at 4 p.m.

Sentence of twelve months' hard labour and 24 strokes of the birch was imposed on Cheung Tim at the Kowloon Police Court this morning, for snatching a rattle and gold bangle from a child at Mongkok market.

The forthcoming marriage is announced of John Robert Foster, of the Chinese Maritime Customs, now serving aboard R.L. Leung Tsing, to Simone Madeleine Helena Desert, of 14, Wing Lock Buildings, Kowloon.

The Committee of the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home gratefully acknowledges the receipt of the following donation toward the funds of the Home:—Royal Naval Recreation Club (per Commander E. G. Morris, R.N. H.M.S. Tamar), $50.

Chan Tat-sang, who was banished for 10 years in 1930, was sent to jail for one year with hard labour, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, for returning within the prohibited time. He pleaded "guilty" and said that his mother had died and he returned to get some money.

Charged with having caused an obstruction on the praya at Connaught Road West with 30 pieces of firewood, a Chinese, pleaded guilty before Mr. Schofield this morning. Inspector W. B. MacWalter said that it was a trade obstruction, and that the defendant refused to clear the area, when warned by an Indian Police Sergeant. About an hour later, the Sergeant returned to the praya to find the defendant sitting beside the firewood. A fine of $9 was imposed.

LINK WITH BRONZE AGE.

Another Discovery At Jericho.

Jerusalem, March 12.

Professor Garstang reports the discovery on the site of ancient Jericho of a necropolis of the Middle Bronze Age, approximately 1600 B.C. The graves were found in a good state of preservation, with important pottery remains.

A four-line Aramaic inscription has been discovered on a limestone tablet about 1 foot square, recording the presence of the bones of Uzziah King of Judah (about 778 to 740 B.C.). Dr. E. L. Sukenik, of the Hebrew University, made the discovery among a collection of antiquities in the Russian Convent on the Mount of Olives.

The style of the writing and of the stone-dressing indicate that the inscription dates from the second century B.C. If genuine, the inscription must refer to the transference, some 100 years after burial, from the Royal tombs of the House of David within the city to a place outside the walls. Such transference is indicated in late Hebrew sources. Nothing is known of the provenance of the inscription, but it was acquired between 1865 and 1894 by the Archimandrite Antonin. His diaries, in which perhaps its acquisition is described, were dispatched after his death to the Holy Synod of the Church of Russia.

SHATIN RAILWAY SMASH.

Abnormal Fall of Rain.

TRAIN CREW'S STORIES.

At the resumed inquiry yesterday, by the Coroner and a special jury, into the circumstances of the recent railway smash, evidence was taken from Mr. R. M. Henderson, Assistant Director of Public Works, and engineer in charge of waterworks construction.

Mr. Henderson was questioned by the Coroner (Mr. E. W. Hamilton). He said that a small dam just below Shingmun Village, about half a mile past Pineapple Pass, had overflowed the 50-ft. gauge by ten feet. This was quite unprecedented. In 1926 the water came over the dam wall, but only by about three feet.

The various rain gauges in the area, said witness, were read daily. The figures for Sunday, the day of the disaster, showed an unusually heavy fall of rain.

Engine "Dropped Down." Lok Ip, fireman of the train, was then called. He said that it was raining heavily when they left Shum Chun about 4.30 p.m. It continued to rain until the time of the accident. Everything looked all right ahead on the line as the train approached the scene of the accident. The train was going at about the usual speed. Then the engine "dropped down." That was all he could really say about it.

The Coroner then read the statement of the engine driver, who is still in hospital. His usual speed, he said, was 28 miles an hour, but on the day in question the rain was so bad that he drove a little slower.

There did not appear to be anything wrong with the track but immediately the bridge was passed, the engine sank down.

Lo Kam-fai, guard on the train, described its composition. There were no people in the first class, about ten or so in the second, and about thirty in the first of the third class coaches. This was the coach where most of the victims came from. The other third class coach carried about twenty passengers.

A Violent Jerk. Witness said he knew nothing until the accident happened, when he felt a violent jerk. After the smash he sent a message by the brakeman to Kowloon Railway Station. He himself walked toward Tai Po and put a detonator on the line. Later, he put three more on the line, about half a mile from the wreck. He put detonators on both sides of the wreck. That was a regulation.

Witness said he also got out the Red Cross box, and put it into use, although not a trained man.

The brakeman gave corroborative evidence, and after hearing the driver of the 4.30 train from Kowloon, who said he noticed nothing unusual, the hearing was adjourned until next Wednesday afternoon.

THE FARCE OF THE SWEEP.

We heartily congratulate the few hundred persons who have drawn prizes in the Irish Grand National Sweepstake, and even more heartily—being brothers in affliction—do we commiserate with all the millions whose expectations have been dashed. London has been especially fortunate, perhaps because London staked most desperately, or possibly because living in close proximity to a spoilsport Home Secretary makes us particularly defiant. The absurdity of trying to stop the sale of sweep tickets in this country could not have been demonstrated more plainly. The joke would have been complete had Mr. Clynnes succeeded in drawing a horse himself. The only thing that prevents us from giving full vent to our hilarity is the reflection that so much good money has left the country. It is not particularly consoling to know that fate has returned a fraction of it, though everyone will give full marks to the Dublin organisers of the Sweepstake for the exceedingly efficient manner in which the draw was run. There was a time, as we discovered recently when scanning some sixteenth century archives, when Dame Fortune was a respecter of persons in distributing her favours. A State lottery organised about 1565 resulted in Queen Elizabeth winning a fortune of £100,000, "greatly," adds the historian, "to the dismay of the citizens." We fear that modern citizens would have been more than dismayed if Mr. Cosgrave had accidentally drawn the favourite. But Ireland has not done so badly out of these recent lotteries; and incidentally she has proved that if the English may not run their own sweepstakes, not all that an anomalous law may say can prevent them from subscribing to sweepstakes.

London Morning Post.

SOPHIE TUCKER'S DRESSES.

Attempt to Avoid Duty.

PENALTY OF £40.

Sophie Tucker (Mrs. Lackay), the music hall and cabaret artiste, of Grosvenor House, Park Lane, W., was summoned before Mr. Gill, at Westminster in mail week, for being knowingly concerned in a fraudulent attempt at the evasion of Customs duties on three silk dresses at Victoria Station on March 8.

Mr. B. M. Cloutman, V.C., represented Miss Tucker, who did not personally appear. A plea of guilty was entered on her behalf.

Mr. R. L. Stephenson (for the Excise authorities) said Miss Tucker was a well known actress, and a short time after her arrival at Victoria four pieces of baggage belonging to her were presented by a baggage porter with a declaration. The declaration was not regarded as very satisfactory by Mr. O'Flynn, the Customs officer, and he rang Miss Tucker up on the telephone, told her what had happened, and, after some delay, she came to Victoria herself.

Mr. O'Flynn told her he must ignore the declaration and begin all over again.

Miss Tucker said she had bought no dresses abroad, and that, with the exception of a few trinkets and a handbag, everything in her baggage had been taken from Britain with her.

She was certain all gowns had been taken from London with her when she went to Paris a few weeks previously.

Later, Miss Tucker admitted that three silk dresses had been bought in Paris, but in the presence of a senior officer she went back on that statement.

When told she must make a declaration, she again admitted that the dresses were bought in Paris. She added that she had listened to other people instead of doing what was right, and was very sorry for all the trouble she had given.

The Magistrate (to Mr. O'Flynn): What were her actual words regarding the admission?

Mr. O'Flynn: She said, "Well, you have been very nice; they were bought in Paris."

Mr. Cloutman urged that the case was not a substantial one. Miss Tucker was very ill, having had a bad crossing, and did not want to be bothered. She thought she would get the things through rather than go down to the shed.

The Magistrate: It was not essential for her to do that. She could have made a declaration. I think that £40, the single value and duty on the dresses, will be an appropriate penalty.

CHEMIST'S STORES DRAMA.

Poison Taken Away For "Slimming" Medicine.

Northern police forces were assisted by the broadcasting authorities to warn two women that they had taken away poison instead of medicine from a Bradford Chemist's stores.

The two women entered a chemist's stores together and asked for two bottles of medicine used for "slimming."

They left the shop, but within a few minutes an assistant noticed that the women had carried away two bottles of poison in mistake.

He pushed out into the crowded street, but the women had disappeared.

Bradford City Police were informed, and within half an hour police headquarters throughout Lancashire and Yorkshire had been notified. Hardly an hour had passed before the warning was issued to the two women from the Northern Regional broadcasting station.

The women were asked to communicate with the nearest police station.

The two bottles of poison were returned intact to the chemist.

The woman who returned them declined to give her name and address.

Ten Years Ago.

[From the "China Mail" of May 15, 1921.]

To-day's dollar is worth 2/6.

Aboard the Admiral Line's new steamer, Wenatchee, which arrived in Hong Kong yesterday afternoon, were several members of the commercial commission from the Pacific North West, which is touring the Far East in order to promote friendly commercial relations between their section of the United States and the Orient.

The Chairman of the Mission, Captain James S. Gibson, a prominent Seattle business man, explained to a China Mail reporter that the object of the visit was to meet and extend the hand of friendship which means so much to both nations.

SHOT DEAD IN BED.

THE LARGEST LAND OWNER IN BUCKINGHAMSHIRE.

SIR R. H. HARVEY.

Sir Robert Grenville Harvey, Bt., of Black Park, Langley, near Slough, was found shot dead in bed. Sir Robert, who was aged seventy-four, returned to his Langley estate from Scotland, where he had been salmon fishing. He was suffering from influenza and was seen by his doctor.

He was depressed, although he was recovering from his attack of influenza.

A shot was heard in the house and Sir Robert was found shot through the head. A revolver was lying on the bed by his side.

Lady Harvey, and their two daughters, Lady Oppenheimer, wife of Sir Michael Oppenheimer, and Mrs. H. H. Balfour, wife of Captain Balfour, M.P., for the Isle of Thanet, were in the house at the time.

Lady Harvey's brother, Colonel Murray, was also a member of the family house party which had assembled for Easter.

Sir Robert was the largest landowner in Buckinghamshire, having 11,000 acres on his magnificent estate at Black Park.

He became a magistrate to the county in 1887, and was the oldest J.P. in the county.

He was extremely fond of walking, and toured his estate almost every day, usually covering about ten miles.

He was also a collector of antiques, and in his mansion there is one of the finest private museums in the country.

He was a great friend to his tenants on the Black Park Estate. Sir Robert married the Hon. Emily Blanche Murray, daughter of the first Viscount Elibank, in 1893, and succeeded his father in the baronetcy in 1887.

His brother, Major Harvey, was killed in action in 1900. There is no heir to the title.

ROUND THE CINEMAS

PAUL WHITEMAN'S GREAT REVUE.

"KING OF JAZZ."

Just as Paul Whiteman himself stands supreme in the world of music, so his first starring picture, Universal's "King of Jazz," which opened at the Majestic Theatre last night, stands supreme in the world of entertainment.

It is without doubt the most tuneful, the most prodigious, the most uniformly magnificent production which has ever reached the screen. This colossal revue is an all-Movietone and all-Technicolor medley of inspiring spectacle, bewitching melody, matchless dancing, clever specialties and hilarious comedy. And in all of these its excellence is surpassing.

If any particular features of so great an achievement as "King of Jazz" can be segregated for special praise, then these features must be the truly marvellous music reproduction, the conception and direction of the spectacle numbers, notably the "Melting Pot"; the gorgeous dancing by the Russell Markert dancers throughout the picture, and the featured numbers of John Boles and Jeanette Loff.

Boles's splendid voice has already made him one of the most popular singing stars on the screen, but the combination of his beautiful baritone and Whiteman's music in such songs as "It Happened in Monterey" and "The Song of the Dawn" is superb. These numbers both are sung in beautiful settings, adding tremendously to the inspiring romanticism of both Boles's personality and his voice. Besides these two, there are almost innumerable other song hits.

Jeanette Loff is so beautiful and so talented that even in "King of Jazz" her presence is outstanding. She obviously is destined to become one of the reigning stars of the sound screen.

There are in all, eight musical spectacle numbers whose grandeur sweep everything before them. Between these are the specialties and comedy black-outs, in which glitter a galaxy of names long famous on the screen, on the stage, in vaudeville lights and in the most celebrated night clubs.

John Murray Anderson, long known as one of the three most celebrated stage producers in America, cannot be too highly commended both for the breadth of his conception in creating "King of Jazz" and for his selection of the marvellous array of talent who appear in it. Directing his first picture, he has unquestionably set an entirely new standard of entertainment for the motion picture world.

"Rango" is showing at the Central Theatre to crowded houses and it is one of the best educational pictures to be screened in this Colony.

The last showing of this picture takes place to-morrow and all those who have not seen it are advised to go at once before it is taken off.

Preceding the main story of "Rango" is a five-minute prologue, a father and his little boy in an American home at Christmas time. The little boy, playing with toy tigers, asks his father to tell him about the land where the tigers live. His father starts to describe the jungle country of Sumatra, and the camera then takes us to Sumatra and the main story. The voice of the father is then heard, in monologue as he tells the story which is being enacted on the screen. The real sounds of the jungle are heard—the enraged roars of the tigers, the screeches of the monkeys, etc.—all the audible accompaniment that goes with the activities of the denizens of the jungle.

"HELL'S ANGELS."

One of the most daring love stories ever screened provides the romantic background for the thrilling air scenes in "Hell's Angels," Howard Hughes' super-spectacle of war-time aviation now playing at the Queen's Theatre.

Amazing and unconventional love scenes are depicted for the first time with unvarnished realism, presenting a war-time heroine in a frank and astounding characterisation.

Jean Harlow, who plays the leading feminine role in "Hell's Angels," opposite Ben Lyon and James Hall, became a star overnight as a result of her performance in this picture, which marks her inaugural appearance on the screen.

Her performance was so vivid and realistic that a nationally-known dramatic critic declared she was "the most sensuous personality that has ever graced the screen."

The modernistic treatment of sex in "Hell's Angels" has created wide discussion among women fans, and the feminine element is always well represented at all performances.

"MIN AND BILL."

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, who have scored repeated successes in separate vehicles, are to be seen in their first co-starring picture, "Min and Bill," which will open to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre.

The picture is based on Lorna Moon's powerful novel of the waterfront, "Dark Star." Information is that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in seeking a story suitable for the combined talents of its two popular players, selected the late Miss Moon's novel for its wide opportunities in both the field of comedy and serious work.

That the two players are as equally at home in the one field as in the other was evidenced in the startlingly contrasting roles played by Miss Dressler in "Anna Christie" and the subsequent "Caught Short," and by Beery in "Billy the Kid."

In the current production Miss Dressler is seen as Min, proprietress of a waterfront hotel, and Beery has the role of a boisterous fishing-barge captain.

The plot centres about Min, who has done her best to give Nancy, her adopted child, a better environment than that of the disreputable waterfront neighbourhood in which she was left by the real mother, a woman of bad reputation. By dint of self-sacrifice and saving, Min has been able to send the girl to a fine school and is about to reap her reward in happiness when she learns that the son of the rich owner of the cannery wants to marry Nancy.

The real mother takes this opportune moment to turn up again with the intention of blackmailing her prospective rich in-laws. The problem is cleared in a powerful climax in which report has it Miss Dressler does the best acting of her career.

One of the most daring love stories ever screened provides the romantic background for the thrilling air scenes in "Hell's Angels," Howard Hughes' super-spectacle of war-time aviation now playing at the Queen's Theatre.

Amazing and unconventional love scenes are depicted for the first time with unvarnished realism, presenting a war-time heroine in a frank and astounding characterisation.

Jean Harlow, who plays the leading feminine role in "Hell's Angels," opposite Ben Lyon and James Hall, became a star overnight as a result of her performance in this picture, which marks her inaugural appearance on the screen.

Her performance was so vivid and realistic that a nationally-known dramatic critic declared she was "the most sensuous personality that has ever graced the screen."

The modernistic treatment of sex in "Hell's Angels" has created wide discussion among women fans, and the feminine element is always well represented at all performances.

"MIN AND BILL."

the jungle country of Sumatra, and the camera then takes us to Sumatra and the main story. The voice of the father is then heard, in monologue as he tells the story which is being enacted on the screen. The real sounds of the jungle are heard—the enraged roars of the tigers, the screeches of the monkeys, etc.—all the audible accompaniment that goes with the activities of the denizens of the jungle.

"MIN AND BILL."

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, who have scored repeated successes in separate vehicles, are to be seen in their first co-starring picture, "Min and Bill," which will open to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre.

The picture is based on Lorna Moon's powerful novel of the waterfront, "Dark Star." Information is that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in seeking a story suitable for the combined talents of its two popular players, selected the late Miss Moon's novel for its wide opportunities in both the field of comedy and serious work.

That the two players are as equally at home in the one field as in the other was evidenced in the startlingly contrasting roles played by Miss Dressler in "Anna Christie" and the subsequent "Caught Short," and by Beery in "Billy the Kid."

In the current production Miss Dressler is seen as Min, proprietress of a waterfront hotel, and Beery has the role of a boisterous fishing-barge captain.

The plot centres about Min, who has done her best to give Nancy, her adopted child, a better environment than that of the disreputable waterfront neighbourhood in which she was left by the real mother, a woman of bad reputation. By dint of self-sacrifice and saving, Min has been able to send the girl to a fine school and is about to reap her reward in happiness when she learns that the son of the rich owner of the cannery wants to marry Nancy.

The real mother takes this opportune moment to turn up again with the intention of blackmailing her prospective rich in-laws. The problem is cleared in a powerful climax in which report has it Miss Dressler does the best acting of her career.

"RANGO."

"Rango" is showing at the Central Theatre to crowded houses and it is one of the best educational pictures to be screened in this Colony.

The last showing of this picture takes place to-morrow and all those who have not seen it are advised to go at once before it is taken off.

Preceding the main story of "Rango" is a five-minute prologue, a father and his little boy in an American home at Christmas time. The little boy, playing with toy tigers, asks his father to tell him about the land where the tigers live. His father starts to describe the jungle country of Sumatra, and the camera then takes us to Sumatra and the main story. The voice of the father is then heard, in monologue as he tells the story which is being enacted on the screen. LAWN BOWLS LEAGUE.

To-morrow's Prospects Depend on Weather.

TEAMS WELL MATCHED.

[By "Short Head."]

At time of beginning these notes much depends on the weather to-morrow as to whether it will be possible to have a full programme of League matches. The forecast is 'no brighter than the overcast sky, although my meteorological informant tips a dry day for Sunday! Provided the rain holds off to-morrow afternoon some of the greens will still be on the heavy side, so that this may cause some upsets. Some teams can only excel on fiery greens, so that any who imagine that they can play in any kind of weather may have an opportunity to make the most of it to-morrow.

LIST OF FIXTURES.

Division I.
K.B.G.C. (61) v. C.S.C.C. (62)
C.C.C. (63) v. Police (64)
Recreio (65) v. K. Dock (66)
Taikoo (67) v. K.C.C. (68)

Division II.
C.S.C.C. (73) v. C.C.C. (57)
Electric (81) v. Taikoo (41)
Yacht Club (53) v. K.B.G.C. (61)
K.C.C. (47) v. Recreio (65)

Figures in parenthesis denote result last season.
Of the four First Division matches on the card to-morrow between the K.B.G.C. and the Civil Service and between the Club de Recreio and the Kowloon Dock should be the closest. The Craignower C.C., at home, should be good enough for the plucky Police team, who gave a by no means indifferent display against the Civil Servants a week ago.

At Taikoo the K.C.C. will find themselves up against a tough proposition. In the Second Division all the contests are in doubt, with the exception, perhaps, of the Civil Service encounter with the Craignower C.C.

FIRST DIVISION.

K.B.G.C. v. Civil Service.
After losing a week ago to the C.C.C. by the unlucky "13" the Bowling Green Club should be on their best behaviour if they mean to prevent another Valley team running away with full points. A year ago the Civil Service won by 62-61 after "Fireman" Moss had burned a head in a very dramatic manner. Two years ago the Bowling Green won by three shots—61-58. The personnel of the Bowling Green team has undergone considerably more changes than that of their visitors to-morrow, and this may be a deciding factor in the match.

C.C.C. v. Police.
A year ago the Police went under to the tune of 60-42, but in the previous year they lost by only 61-58. They have this season an odd mixture of veterans and griffins at the game, but such a team is quite likely to spring one or two surprises before the season is over. If the newer boys can be infected with "Charlie" West's great enthusiasm anything may happen even against a solid team like the Craignower C.C. The latter tasted first blood in an away match a week ago and are, therefore, confident of the issue to-morrow.

Recreio v. Kowloon Dock.
When these Clubs met at King's Park last season the home rinks proved victorious by the narrow margin of 66-64, the result in the previous season also being in their favour by 62-60. They won on two rinks against the Taikoo

Club a week ago, whilst the Kowloon Dock—with a good team on paper—went down to the K.C.C. by 17 shots. If the visitors to-morrow can aggregate 60 shots or more, the Club de Recreio may reckon on being extended the whole way to win.

Taikoo v. K.C.C.
Last year the K.C.C. nearly sprung a surprise at Taikoo, losing by only 63-54, as compared with their defeat in the previous year by 75-47. Taikoo finished on the losing side a week ago, whilst the K.C.C. put it over their old friends and rivals of Kowloon Dock. The skips on both sides are all tried and trusty players, and this ought to invest to-morrow's game with a great deal of interest.

SECOND DIVISION.

C.S.C.C. v. C.C.C.
Last year's match was won by the Civil Servants by 73-57, but the year before they went down by 53-53. They had to own the superiority of the Yacht Club a week ago, whereas the Craignower lost on their own green to the Bowling Green Club. There are fewer changes in the Civil Service this season than in the Craignower, although the former are said to be awaiting the return from short leave of a certain skip before they are fated to meet the big guns in the Division.

Electric Co. v. Taikoo.
It seems hardly likely that the Electric Company will "shock" Taikoo to-morrow to the same extent as last season—81-41. The result may be more similar to that of a couple of seasons ago—64-59 in favour of the Electricians. Both teams lost a week ago, but, even so, Taikoo appear the better all-round team and may to-morrow atone for the last two defeats on foreign soil.

Yacht Club v. K.B.G.C.
Last year the Yachtsmen had to bow the knee by the small margin of 61-53, whilst a couple of seasons ago they lost by the narrower margin of 62-51. The Yacht Club have almost First Division talent, with quite a number who have played for years and some who have been skips in First Division Clubs. If they continue as they started a week ago they ought to figure for the first time as champions of the Second Division. Although the Bowling Green Club also finished on the right side last week it looks as if this season they will have to act more the part of feeders for the First Division team than for a long time past.

K.C.C. v. Recreio.
For two years running the K.C.C. have had to bite the dust to the Portuguese by margins of 66-47 and 71-64, respectively. Both finished on the winning side a week ago, although the Recreio were up against the tougher opposition. It is too early in the season to predict with confidence the result of this match to-morrow.

I sat behind the base-line at Hampstead while Betty Nuthall was playing. It is from that point the pace of a drive or a service can best be judged. You get to see how it looks to the player who is receiving it. As a result I have no hesitation in saying that off the pitch Betty's drive came as fast as did Helen Wills-Moody's last year, while some of her first services came even faster.—Polaris in The Star.

KIPPAX'S ELEVEN IN DRAWN GAME.

Jackson Scores Another

BRADMAN INJURED.

Queensland, April 23.
In a two days' match played at the Rockhampton Show Grounds on Saturday and Sunday, Kippax's eleven defeated Central Queensland on the first innings, having a lead of 263, with four wickets in hand. Kippax won the toss, and sent the home side in to bat Early in the innings Bradman injured his ankle, and it is understood that he will be unable to play for the rest of the tour. Nevertheless, this did not interfere with the game on the second day, as it far exceeded that of the first day. It was estimated that the total attendance for the two days was 10,000, the takings amounting to about £700. The home team, by scoring 211 runs, made the highest score against the visitors so far on their tour. Towards the close, in response to cries from the crowd, Bill jumped out to Driscoll's slows, hitting two or three sixes, one of which went into one of the grand stands.

Scores:—
Central Queensland: 211 (A. Fairfax 4 for 58).
A. Kippax's XI: 464 for 6 (A. Jackson 137, Rigg 50, A. Kippax 81, S. McCabe 72, Bill 50*).

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS
ON GANDHI.

Lord Irwin a Man of Large Heart.

INDIAN WASHINGTON.

Bombay, April 16.
Mr. Douglas Fairbanks, the famous American film star, arrived here yesterday from Delhi.

In the course of a conversation with journalists, Mr. Douglas Fairbanks said India was marvellously interesting to him from every point of view. He had a thrilling time of it in Cooch Behar, where he killed 6 panthers and four tigers. He enjoyed every minute of his stay in this country.
Though he was not fully conversant with Indian politics, he could not help comparing Mr. Gandhi to George Washington.

The film star said that he was very much impressed with the trust and faith the majority of the Indian public had placed in Mr.
Gandhi, the father of the great new Satyagraha movement. In this respect, Mr. Gandhi had, he said, no parallel in history, except George Washington. Though he had not the pleasure of meeting Mr.
Gandhi, from what he had heard and read during his travel in India, he understood Mr. Gandhi was a fine man.

Mr. Fairbanks added that he had a lengthy talk with the Viceroy in Delhi just before his departure, and found Lord Irwin a man of large heart. He was easily the most sympathetic friend of India.

Indian Cinemas.

Referring to cinemas in India,
Mr. Fairbanks said he attended few shows in Calcutta. Indian pictures had good projections, and were interesting. Indian acting was of a very high standard. He met a few tragedians and comedians who had acted marvellously. There was no distinction between Indian and English acting. Rather, the West had to learn a good deal from some of the Indian actors.

Turning to the future of "talkies," Mr. Douglas Fairbanks said he did not know how it would shape. In its present state, there was too much of talking which spoiled the effect of many pictures.
He was in favour of a judicious combination of "talkies" and silent pictures. Mr. Fairbanks is sailing for Britain to-morrow to meet Mrs.
Fairbanks. After spending the Summer and Autumn on the Continent, Mr. Fairbanks, in the company of his wife, will visit
India during the next cold weather.
It will be remembered Mr. Fairbanks arrived in India on March 16, and travelled all over Bengal,
Central India and Delhi.

May Return With Mary Pickford.

"The political situation in India is none of my business," said Mr.
Douglas Fairbanks on his departure for Britain.

"Nevertheless I have the greatest admiration for the work which Britons in India have so far accomplished. Lord Irwin particularly, with whom I had a long talk in Delhi, is a very fine man."

Fairbanks was more interested in shooting and said he had bagged six panthers and had a few shots at tigers in Cooch Behar.

Asked if he intended to produce films with an Indian background he said that while he was yet undecided, nevertheless, such a wealth of spectacular material was available for such films would come, but owing to defective technical facilities he could not shoot any scenes in India.

"I look forward," he added, "to returning to this wonderful country with my wife in the course of a few months."

KING'S HEALTH DRUNK IN TEA.

Opening of Co-operative Society's New Warehouse.

London, April 22.

Seven-hundred tea-cups were raised to drink in tea the health of the King at a luncheon given by the English and Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society to celebrate the opening in London of a new tea warehouse, which will enable the Society to cope with an output of 1,700,000 lb. a week.

The toast of the Society was proposed by the Prime Minister, Mr.
Ramsay MacDonald, who recalled its humble beginning at Rochdale, and said it now occupied a unique place in the history of human democracy.

The Premier pointed out that the Society's sales of tea had increased from 27,000,000 lb. in 1913 to 81,000,000 lb. in 1928, and it now occupied a premier position in the Empire as growers, dealers, importers, blenders, packers and distributors.

Sir Herbert Samuel, M.P., pointed out that the Society purveyed
one-fifth of the tea consumed in Great Britain.

RUINED TEMPLES OF BENGAL.

Government Attempt to Preserve Relics.

WORK OF EXCAVATION.

The small village of Paharpur, three miles from Jamalpur, a station on the Eastern Bengal Railway, so long unknown to the outside public, has now become a centre of pilgrimage as a result of the excavation of a huge ruined temple and other relics of ancient civilisation of Bengal.

The Archaeological Department of the Government of India is in charge of operations. The interest which the discovery has aroused may serve as an inducement to students interested in tracing the origin of art, sculpture and archaeology of Bengal to pay a visit to it.

Nature's Ravages.

It was expected last year that,
so far as the excavation of the place was concerned, it would come to an end this year. But the prophecy appears to be somewhat premature in view of the results of the excavation conducted so far. It is likely that a few more years will have to be spent before the work of exploration is complete.

In the meantime, the climate of Bengal is having its vengeance on the exposed ruins. So long as they were underneath the debris they were kept in a fit state of preservation by Nature, but now they are showing distinct signs of decay, and if immediate steps are not taken it is feared that not only their freshness but also their durability will be jeopardised. It may, therefore, be assumed that the expert advice of the Archaeological Chemist of the Government of India will be sought to check the already damaged finds from further decay.

Conservation Work.

A visit to the place first impresses the eye with the conservation work that is going on on apace. The work was commenced with the various cells, about 196 in number, forming a quadrangle round the main mound.
The present Superintendent is keen on maintaining the original style of the ruins, which will help the interested visitor to have a genuine idea of the original structure of the building and its style. So far as the main mound is concerned, though it is fully exposed and has been partially repaired, it has been left quite untouched this year.

The extensive excavation on the southern side of the quadrangle, which has been done this year, has brought many important finds to public view. The most interesting of them and perhaps of the whole lot hitherto unearthed in Paharpur, is the discovery of a plinth or a replica of the main temple. It looks exactly like the main temple and has an equal number of angles.
Close to it has been exhumed
five brick-built vedas (pedestals) of different sizes and styles. By the side of these has been unearthed a big brick-built well, which is in a perfect state of preservation. The construction of all these finds suggests that they are as old as the main temple, which is ascribed to date from the Fifth Century, A.D.

More Land Required.

A portion of the stone steps has been unearthed near the east gate. The lowermost of these suggests that it was the original level of the temple. The level at present maintained is, therefore,
false, and the original level,
which is about two feet down it, has been abandoned owing to the seepage of water. The original plan of the temple according to which the land was acquired by the Government for the purposes of excavation, has proved to be insufficient by the excavation conducted during the present year.
Although the excavation is already beyond the land acquired by the Government, the end is still not in sight. The work done beyond the main gate on the north has brought to light two brick-built plinths on either side of the gate which are symmetrical and are situated at equal distances from the gate.

Terra Cotta Plaques.

The innumerable terra cotta plaques, which once decorated the basement of the huge temple measuring about 360 feet in its extreme length, 318 feet in breadth and about 75 feet in height have been housed in a temporary shed. The importance of these plaques to the student of plastic art appears to be great and requires a small museum for their permanent housing. The observing eye will find out that, stone being somewhat difficult to get from nearby, the ancient Bengali artist and architect had given expression to his feeling most wonderfully on these plaques. Here

BUILDINGS LAST TOO LONG!

A Steel "Chief" on Need for New Designs.

PROGRESS PREVENTED.

"It is high time we regarded a building as a commodity, not as a permanent monument, and that the law stopped compelling us to put up buildings which are bound to outlast their usefulness."

Mr. C. J. Kavanagh, Director of the British Steel Work Association, made this statement to the Evening News.

The British Steel Work Association has just collaborated with the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research in putting up the skeleton of a three-storey steel building at Watford.

"The whole frame is loaded with water tanks so that, for experimental purposes, strains up to 27 tons can be applied to any points of the steel frame, which is without floors or walls."

The tests to be carried out
there will lead, it is hoped, to a wider appreciation of the uses and advantages of steel construction.

Made to Last Too Long.

Mr. Kavanagh maintains that present-day restrictions and regulations hamper the British building trade from putting up structures which are sound propositions, not only architecturally,
but economically.

"The earning life of a building is limited," he said, "and our London buildings are out of date long before they are worn out; think of the Hotel Cecil. But we continue to build under regulations which will make a building last at least twice as long as it is wanted."

"The building of modern hotels, office blocks, and stores is now an affair of engineering. One should no more think of building them for performance than one would think of intending a ship to last

he had not to suffer in the least from any paucity of stone, and,
as a matter of fact, he had abundantly used this most available material for carving stories dealing with the exploits of Lord Krishna and the fables of the Sanskrit Aesop. In giving shape to his emotional feeling he had broken under the people's tradition most mercilessly.

for ever. It is not that they wear out; it is their design that grows out of date.

"The economic life of a building today is about thirty years,
and even if it is not out of date
at the end of that time it is quite probable that the value of its site has entirely altered. Look how London's hotel and shopping centres have been moving west, for instance, and imagine the plight of a giant department store built to last a hundred years and put up fifty years ago in, say, Champs-Élysées."

Designers Tied Down.

"Architects, financiers, engineers, and everybody who is interested in building, will tell you how they are hampered and bothered at every turn by the law.
Before we rationalise the building industry we must rationalise the laws about it."

"Why can't we have some general regulations—that a building must be passed as satisfactory, safe, hygienic, and reasonably fireproof? At present, we are tied down to innumerable details."

"If I want to build a wall of hollow blocks I can't do it in such and such a place, however strong the blocks may be, because the regulation says the wall must consist of solid brick 14½ inches thick, for instance."

Does anybody imagine that a man who is spending a million pounds on a new building, for which he has to find tenants, is going to be such an idiot as to build something unsafe and unhealthy? The London County Council is showing a very reasonable and go-ahead spirit, but still we are tied down by out-of-date laws.

"Consider the limitations of height in London. A steel building as high as the Hotel Cecil would be thirty per cent. lighter, so it could be built much higher without any more risk of subsidence."

More Floors.

"Look at the price you have to pay for modern flats in the huge new buildings. If these buildings had been a couple of floors higher, the extra accommodation would pay for the rates, a huge item in the landlord's expenses."

"Even the traffic problem is affected. If you could put up a big, high building, in the centre of a site, you could surround it with very broad roads. But today people are condemned by the regulations to build so low that they are forced to use the whole of the ground area in order to make reasonable economic use of the site, and so the narrow roads remain."

"If high buildings are accused of excluding light and air, what about the sunny freshness of our slum streets, with their rows and rows of three-storey houses?"

"Artistically, the regulations are maddening. I said to an architect the other day: 'I suppose 50 per cent. of your work consists in worrying about regulations?' He replied that he only wished the percentage were so low!"

"Now is our chance to tackle
the whole question nationally."

A Clean Sweep.

"If we are going to alter the London arrangements, it would be far the best thing to make a clean sweep, so that Glasgow and Edinburgh and all other cities work under a single, sensible and, above all, flexible system of regulations."

"For the regulations must keep pace with engineering progress.
Every year new systems of construction came into being and au-tomatically put a whole group of regulations out of date by solving purely technical problems."

MR. CHAPLIN'S CROSS.

The Legion of Honour is Not Pleased.

"Military members of the Legion of Honour who earned their decoration on the battlefield are intensely annoyed because the Cross of a Knight of the Legion has been bestowed by the French Government on Mr. Charles Chaplin."

They have made a formal protest, which has been sent by the Association of Members of the order.

According to the "Action Francaise" the ex-services men who have been decorated do not see why the red ribbon of the Legion, tinged with the blood of heroes, should be bestowed on a clown, who has made millions by his clowning, and is thus placed on a level with those who shed their blood for their country.

Mr. Chaplin has become a member of an order which includes, besides heroes of the great war, a woman who gave birth to nineteen children; M. Escoffier, who invented peche Melba; several dressmakers, and Dr. Voronoff, the "monkey-gland" expert.

TALKIE TALKS
by Diane

"Under Suspicion" seems promising material. It is a song romance of the North-West, with two capable stars—Lois Moran, who is 100 per cent. an actress, (she is among the few Movie actresses who has made good on Broadway), and is full of charm. We have seen her here in "Behind that Curtain," and "Not Damaged" and she will shortly be showing in "The Dancers." J. Harold Murray was the original male lead in "Rio Rita. He has not been handed suitable vehicles up to date, but he has quite good chances in this play. Kerrigan (Irish) remembered in "Song O'
My Heart," and Lumsden Hare (English) in "So this is London," all lend good support. The story depicts the adventures of a famous British ace, who, to save the honour of his family, loses his identity, renounces his title and and after the Armistice joins the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.
E. F. Erickson directed and there are some beautiful "shots" of the Canadian Rockies. We are treated to some charming song numbers, aided by a large chorus. The hero rescues the heroine's father by aeroplane in a big forest fire. The final wedding scene allows opportunity for the wearing of some attractive gowns. The name of Lois Moran should be attraction enough for you, and the singing is first-rate. (King's).

Hell's Angels.
No need to boast "Hell's Angels."
It has that "kick" that will make it a huge success here. It took four million dollars and three years to make. For its kind it is stupendous. The story is just an excuse to carry the thrills. Ben Lyon and James Hall are the two brother "up" at Oxford, one noble, the other a weakling. The good brother shoots the weaker one when accused of treason. But as I said before, do not bother about the story. Go and see the air shots
—the photography, the Zeppelin raid over London. All these things help to make it an epic of the air.
Ben Lyon married Bebe Daniels and set forth on a new career in the Talkies. Howard Hughes bought his contract from First National who had for months not given the actor a part worth playing. He drew a very large salary when the Movie version of this play started, with Greta Nissen as the star. Then when it was finished
"the Talkies came and the whole thing had to be scrapped. Ben was kept on, Jean Harlow, an attractive ashen-haired Society girl from Chicago, was put in Greta's place, and Howard Hughes, the Oil Millionaire, started in to spend a few more million dollars. Jean looks the proverbial vamp, the love scenes are steam-heated (if the Censor has not stepped in here) but who cares? We shall go to see the War in the Air. (Queen's).

"Range."
Into the jungle of Sumatra a clever man named Ernest Schoed-sack took a camera and great patience. He brought back as engrossing a Movie as one could wish to find—if you love animals like
I do this picture will not appeal.
I did not care to see the tragedy and retribution in the lives of jungle beasts. I must admit that "Range" is utterly, magnificently different from anything else. Perhaps you will do as I did, give a sob for the death of Range.
(Central).

After "Hell's Angels" finishes
we shall have three days of "Whoopie," one of the finest musicals ever shown here. Whoopie—(Queen's).

"Beau Bandit" with Rod la Rocque in a type of play which he likes, supported by the far-too-

Dorothy Jordan.

much praise cannot be given to all the artistes. (Queen's).

After seeing Joan Crawford in "Paid" I am wondering just how long she will keep my sincere admiration—certainly NOT if she gives such performances as she did in this once-upon-a-time strong drama. Her conception of the part of Mary Turner was WRONG from every angle. Mary was no quitter, but Miss Crawford gave me the impression of FEAR from the first scene to the final fade-out. Mary, by her clever lawyer-like brain held the other crooks in the hollow of her hand, not only from her knowledge of the law, but by her air of breeding her pluck.
I flatter myself that I speak and understand American, but WHAT was said three-quarters of the time
by the new pesty-faced lead known as Kent Douglas, I really do NOT know. (Let the so-called actor stick to the stage). Joe Garson, played by Robert Armstrong, could not compare with the acting of Lew Cody in the Movies; he never had a moment's sympathy from me. The story was SO altered that I did not know where I was. I am still waiting for the real culprit to enter—half the people who saw the play will have to take Mary's word that she did not commit the theft. I am not surprised that half the gorgeous part of Aggie was "Cut"
when played by Marie Prevost, and I am further NOT surprised that
M.G.M. did not renew her contract.
She looked a little older than her fourteen years, and she should copy
Miss Crawford—go in for dieting.
From an ardent Fan a few words of advice—let Miss Crawford stick to "Modern Daughters" type, or resign and raise a family of small Fairbanks. (Queen's).

"Passion Flower."

After seeing "Passion Flower"
I cannot help quoting something I read the other day. Novelist chatting to publisher "By the way,"
asked the latter—"Where did you get the plot of your second novel?"

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP.

Coming shortly. The greatest picture to date—"City Lights" packing the theatre all day and half the pathos than laughter so be prepared to shed real tears.

Dorothy Christie seen here in
"So this is London" and "The Playboy of Paris" is a Ziegfeld graduate. Now under contract with Fox.

Norma Shearer's "Strangers May Kiss" is another great role for this lucky actress, just another blazing triumph for the Winner of the 1930 award. What a supporting cast. Robert Montgomery in his best part to date, Irene Rich, Nell Hamilton and Marjorie Rambeau.

Robert Montgomery.

Chevalier's Latest.
I wonder HOW much they will stick to the story of "The Waltz Dream" in Chevalier's latest "The Smiling Lieutenant's. Anyhow,
they still keep to the original names
Franzi the Cafe Violinist, and Nikl
the Lieutenant, Miriam Hopkins, who was so good in "Fast and Loose," will be the Princess Anna—
it MAY be another "Love Parade."
If they keep to something like the original text—Cludefete Colbert as Franzi. I look forward to it, but I certainly hope we shall have the glorious music too. (Paramount).

KAI TAK BUILDING.

EXPENDITURE IN 1928 APPROVED.

COUNCIL MEETING.

Expenditure of the sum of $692,783 in respect of the construction of Kai Tak Aerodrome was approved at a meeting of the Legislative Council yesterday, which was presided over by H.E. the Governor.

Col. C. R. U. Savile took his seat on the Council as Hon. Officer Commanding the Troops.

In moving the resolution as regards Kai Tak, the Colonial Secretary said:—

"That this Council approves of the expenditure in the year 1928 from the surplus balances of the Colony of the sum of $692,783, in respect of the construction of the Kai Tak Aerodrome, such sum being recoverable from the first instalment of the contribution made by the Imperial Government."

He said:—On September 23, 1929, this Council approved, as will be within the recollection of honourable members, the construction of the Kai Tak Aerodrome at an estimated cost of $1,639,467 exclusive of contributions from His Majesty's Government; and at the same time authorized the sum of $1,080,288.74 of that amount to be charged to the Public Works (1927) Loan and to be expended from loan funds during the financial year 1928. Simultaneously an advance from the surplus balances of the Colony of the sum of $78,114.17 was authorized in respect of the financial year 1928.

The Imperial grant of £70,000, realising $692,783, was spent in the year 1928 but was not actually brought to account until January, 1929, and the resolution which I now propose is therefore necessary in order to legalize the expenditure of the equivalent of that contribution which, so far as the year 1928 is concerned, is in excess of the sum authorized by the September 1929 resolution.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the resolution was agreed to. The first reading of a Bill intituled "an Ordinance to amend the law relating to the registration of births and deaths, was approved.

The following Bills, which received their first reading last week, passed their remaining stages, and became law:—The Bankruptcy Ordinance, 1931; the Merchant Shipping Amendment (No. 2) Ordinance, 1931; the Vaccination Amendment Ordinance, 1931; and the Legal Practitioners Amendment Ordinance, 1931.

CAIRO RIOTS.

TWO BRITISH ENGINEERS WOUNDED.

TEN PERSONS KILLED.

Cairo, Yesterday. The elections of first degree delegates, who will eventually return the members of Parliament, opened this morning.

Serious trouble occurred in the Bulak and Shubra quarters, where railway and arsenal workers are striking. Mobs at Bulak attacked and burnt tramcars and buses, and attempted to barricade the streets, pulling down lamp posts. The police were obliged to fire, and it is reported that many rioters were killed.

The movement has spread to the Saptikh quarter, near the main railway station.

Two British engineers are reported to have been seriously wounded in this morning's rioting.

The casualty list up to now is 10 killed and 86 wounded.—Reuter.

NEW TESTS FOR DEAFNESS.

Gramophone Exercises For Schoolchildren.

Preliminary tests on the hearing of children in one of the L.C.C. schools have been carried out on behalf of the Council by the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine.

The method, which makes use of a gramophone record and headphones, has only recently been introduced into England by workers at the School. If the same proportion of deafness is revealed as has already been recorded by the same workers among the school children of Hornsey, it is estimated that 30,000 children from the L.C.C. schools must be in need of medical attention from this cause.

In the school laboratories I submitted myself to the standard test and succeeded in establishing that my hearing is normal.

Ordinary methods, my informant stated, might easily fail to detect slight degrees of deafness which the new test will discover, so that treatment may be applied before the defect becomes more severe.

Also by the gramophone system, 40 children can be tested in 20 minutes, whereas the usual tests would occupy about 200 minutes. The seriousness of the problem, he added, was best illustrated by the high number of rejections of Army recruits for middle-ear trouble, which is the greatest individual cause of medical rejection.

LONDON'S GUNMEN.

"Scotland Yard Needs Shaking Up."

London, April 19. A robbery in London has stirred some papers to call for prompt measures to ensure that gunmen's methods are not introduced into the capital of the Empire. A street sweeper in the early hours saw a man helping himself to watches through a shop-window of a watch manufacturer's shop in Kingsway. He went to interfere, but suddenly another man thrust a revolver into his face and gruffly told him to "clear out quick." The bandits then decamped in a motor-car with watches worth £50. The Daily Express, urging the maximum penalties in dealing with such crimes, remarks that every gunman is at heart a coward and a bully. "Let us speak to him in

COURTAULD'S TALE

Angmagsalik, Yesterday. A shout of "Hallo! All right!" emerging from a small hole in the top of a huge mound of snow, told rescuers that Mr. Courtauld was alive.

The Watkins party of three had toiled many days through snow and ice when they located an enormous ice-covered snow-drift, which was Courtauld's hut. They found a little hole serving as a chimney and shouted down this and breathlessly awaited a reply. The cheery response came immediately, and the rescuers with spades in a quarter of an hour had dug Courtauld out. He was thin, but fit.

Courtauld related that a blizzard two months earlier had buried the hut, and it was impossible for him to dig himself out, among other reasons because he left his spade outside. The only air inlet was the chimney, on which he constantly worked to keep it open. He had been without light for a month, except for an occasional glimmer from a little petrol lamp used to melt snow for drinking water.

He spent the time sleeping, thinking and "keeping my pecker up."—Reuter.

M. BRIAND.

WILL CONTINUE AS FOREIGN MINISTER.

DEFINITE STATEMENT.

Paris, Yesterday.

M. Laval states that the vote of the National Assembly is in no way to be interpreted as directed against the foreign policy of the Governments in recent years, which Parliament has constantly ratified. Moreover, the present Cabinet must formally resign on June 13, when the new President of the Republic will enter office.

M. Laval might therefore ask M. Briand to defer his decision until then. This will enable M. Briand to participate in the important negotiations at Geneva, notably with regard to the Austro-German Customs union, as the Foreign Minister is a permanent delegate of France to the League.

M. Briand in a statement published in the Radical-Socialist newspaper Republique says:

"I shall continue to manage foreign affairs as long as I have a majority in the Chamber and Senate."

It is disclosed that M. Briand tendered his resignation this morning, but agreed at the urgent request of his colleagues to withdraw it.—Reuter.

M. Briand will go to-night to Geneva. He declares he will not remain until the end of the negotiations.—Havas.

language that he understands." The News Chronicle declares that Scotland Yard needs shaking up but cannot be shaken up until the present administrative position is regularised and a new and active chief appointed. The Daily Herald, however, says that when Lord Byng returns to London he began one of the most drastic reorganizations that ever affected the London Police. A letter published in that newspaper says that if Sir Charles Tegart were appointed as Lord Byng's successor the Pressmen of London would appreciate his helpfulness and tact. As his tenure of office in Calcutta showed, he realised the value of giving the public a correct impression of events.
